

Working Group on Ventilation

- It is necessary to decide upon the place of acid scrubbers and biotrickling filters for treatment of exhaust air either within the Category 1 or Category 2.
- It is necessary to express the role of climate control systems in more detail and in more explicit way;

- Ventilation is a very important issue but it should be considered together with the animal housing in all the three documents
- Revision of the whole text of all the documents is required including the animal housing and manure storage parts.
- Amendments and additions, which might appear in the new version of BREF, which is under revision at the moment, should be taken into consideration this way or the other.
